Interesting to see an erstwhile Bernie Sanders progressive suddenly tout the importance of fiscal frugality and the need for everyone to be fucked over equally for the sake of even-handedness.

I'm sure it's got nothing to do with dumbass knee-jerk tankie contrarianism though.

I *am* sorry for your people, actually. The question is to what degree Americans should fund their defense.

Do you care about what mine or going through? Or are we still in the "blonde haired blue eyed victims matter more" phase of humanitarianism?

My people are facing annihilation of our country, language, and life and you can help with no net negative and your response is "Not good enough reason for me"

If you can't see why that's upsetting and ghoulish then there really is no hope for the western left.

Like, how hard is it to say “We must support Ukrainians in their fight against colonial subjugation, and we also need to ensure that other people and other countries in need also get the help they deserve?”

But no, she can't say that lest she untangle herself from her web of delusions about how (1) the only real imperialism is US imperialism and, thus, (2) no other country can be imperialist and, thus, (3) countries victimized by other imperialist states aren't actually victims.
